Rail Union Leader 'Still Encouraged'

OTTAWA (CP) - Canadian union leaders today conferred with Prime Minister Diefenbaker on possible ways of avert-ing the threatened strike of CPR rail firemen.

The 11-man union headed by President Claude Jodoin of the 1,000,000 member Canadian Labor Congress, met with Mr. Diefenbaker in his office. Sitting in also was Labor Minister Starr.

The meeting was arranged after Tuesday's Montreal conference among union officials. They said then they would initiate certain discussions which they believe might pro-vide an approach in the solution of the dispute between the CPR and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and En

OTTAWA (CP) .- Strike instructions are being sent today to key officials of the railway firemen's union to organize strike arrangements on the Canadian Pacific Railway for Sunday morning, a uni spokesman said here today.

He said the instructions were issued from the Montreal office of W. E. Gamble, Canadian Head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC). They went out to nine key officers.

The nine were assigned to various areas to set up strike arrangements and organize picket lines. Some 3,000 CPR firemen are involved in the dispute over use of firemen on diesel locomotives in freight and vard service.

"We're going ahead with our strike preparations," the spokes-man said.

The Tap Is Turned Off

immigration it is easy to score a debating point against Mr. Diefenbaker. But this kind of exercise will do nothing to promote a sound, longterm immigration policy.

On April 26, 1957, in Toronto, Mr. Diefenbaker said that Canada should admit annually a number of immigrants equal to 4 per cent of our population—that is about 640,-000 immigrants a year.

At that time Mr. Diefenbaker was critical of the St. Laurent Government for its timid and restrictive immigration policy. But in Winnipeg last week he said his Government's policy was to "restrict" immigration to the numbers which could be "economically absorbed."

The Prime Minister's views have drastically altered in exactly one year, but so has the economic cli-What would have been a sound policy last year is not neces-sarily sound this year (though obvi-Mr. Diefenbaker's target of 640,000 immigrants was excessive last spring and his criticism of the existing Government quite absurd.)

No one can quarrel with him when he says that the nation should not admit more immigrants than it can economically absorb. And lately our power of absorption has shrunk at a time of business recession.

In pure theory, of course, new immigrants will not reduce our prosperify even at a time of recession. Every newcomer is not merely an applicant for a job. He is a potential producer and immediately a con-sumer. The long-term problems of Canada-above all, the problem of creating a larger internal market for our products—cannot be solved without a large increase in population, much larger than our own birthrate can possibly supply. Practical politics, however, are not pure theory and it is certain that a mássive immigration this year would be seriously disturbing in a labor market where over half a million Canadians are idle.

No government in its senses would encourage large-scale immigration at the moment, not at least would sharply improve in the visible future. There is no such assurance today. The unemployment problem, though it may lessen during the sum-mer, will probably be with us the rest of the year anyway.

Accordingly, immigration has totaled only 20,000 persons in the first three months of this year, less than a third of the total in the same months of 1957, when Mr. Diefen-baker considered the movement far too small. The present Government imposed restrictions last July, on taking office, and those restrictions are showing their effect.

Immigration can be turned on and off like a tap, by federal regulation. The tap is now turned off, or almost off. But we should be looking forward in a young and expanding country far beyond an immediate

We must remember, too, that there is a time-lag in immigration. It takes a year or more to interest average foreigner in Canada. The people planning now to come here will not arrive, in most cases, for twelve or eighteen months, even if the bars are down. Hence the Government should be thinking not just of the immediate unemployment problem but of that continued national growth which we must have if we are to use fully the huge productive apparatus we built during the

Mr. Diefenbaker is not to be criticized because he has completely changed his mind in a year of general change but it is to be hoped that he has more than emergency plans of restriction. What is his longterm policy on immigration? Is he prepared to turn the tap on again after the emergency? Does he still believe in an immigration of over half a million people annually when times are good? Or has he agreed with the former Government that this target is too high?

Parliament is entitled to hear from him soon the conclusions he has drawn on this subject from his practical experience in office, experience very different from the carefree days of opposition.

So the millenium people will need to have that sort of background explained to them, just as we have difficulty in realizing exactly what it must have been like to live through a medieval plague epidemic.

Basic Causes

They may have read or learned that in the twentieth century this race hated that race, or this group of humans wanted to exert power over that group, or this land's inhabitants were hungry and that land's inhabitants had too much, or this people had a theory of living and insisted that the other peoples agree with them—and so there was a war, or the threat of war. Naturally the millenium people will set themselves: But why? What ask themselves: But why? What was the sense of it? And by that time nobody will be able to tell them.

And then they may read that humans crowded into large conglomerations of dwellings and work buildings, so many together that they had the utmost difficulty in feeding themselves, and had to go to tremendous expense to transport themselves to and from their occupations.

And they may learn that the noise

Thrilling Story

The Centenary of British Columbia's existence brings to view the thrilling story of the events that led to this step. Among the great nations that laid claim to this Pacific coastal region from the early years of the 18th century were Spain, Russia, then under the rule of the Czars, Britain, which had sent many noted explorers such as Drake, Cook and Vancouver, and the United States, whose fur companies were eager for the gain from that source.

One by one these rival claimants had to concede the British claim and thus this rich territory fell to the Dominion of Canada and we this year celebrate that event. It was good Queen Victoria who chose the name of British Columbia.

. Well may we today be thankful that this B.C. province did not fall to some of these other claimants else where would the freedoms we enjoy in politics or re-ligion be now? What if Spain had won out with its autocratic rule and religious despotism, and Russia, whether under the Czars or the Soviet Republic as it is now, with its disregard of human rights!

Canada whether East or West is part of the New World of North America where people of all lands may come and enjoy freedom. This is in God's plan that in this New World there should be freedom and may this Centenary bring these things to our minds.

Bad Smell in Highlands

A good deal of very angry talk is going on up here, about "all of the garbage from Victoria, being dumped in the Highland District."

in the Highland District.

Do you think there are half-a-dozen half-wild savages on the Milistream and Munns roads where nothing in the way of bad smells, rubbish and rats matter, or do they not think at all?

Taking a walk one day towards what is facetiously called a "sanitary centre," I soon found out where the bad smell

(to put it politely) came from.

Rats—they keep me well up with my target practice—but then I cannot very well miss for the beastly things sit up and look at me and for two pins would attack me.

Have they never heard of incinera tors which would burn up all burnable stuff, or of a metal crushing plant, or that such crushed tin cans, etc., would that such crushed tin cans, etc., would sink in the sea, and stay at the bottom?

Does the health of our people mean nothing to our MHO? There are more than 150 people affected by the "bad ers of many cabins and cottages on the lakes where folks spend most of their summers. Why ruin holidays in the hills for many people unnecessarily?

Dumping alongside the roads by private parties, proves only too conclusively how very far we are from having any real civilization or culture. More "no dumping" signs might possibly awaken the sensibilities of some of the well-brought-up people.

The Socreds seems to be very busy, plaiting the rope that will hang them. They should remember that "Those whom the Gods would destroy, they first drive mad," and try to think things out sanely like grown men.

Wants Speakers' Corner

An item in Wednesday's Times stated that the City Police Commission had turned down a proposal for a Speaker's Corner to be permitted, in Beacon Hill Park, similar to the one in Hyde Park London, on the grounds that "there is ro necessity for such at the present

This is a keen disappointment to the very many upholders of free speech and discussion at open air meetings, and who fully agree with a Times editorial which stated that Democracy needs these Speakers' Corners and there should be ore of them.

Can we assume from the Commis sion's words "No necessity at the present time" that the Commission does present time that the Commission does realize there is a necessity for a Speak-er's Corner, but the present time is not opportune? If that be so, with all due respect to the Commission, I reply "that there is no time like the present

This Centennial year will see many ousand additional visitors to the city. A Speaker's Corner in operation would be visible proof to them that we in Victoria prefer to practise free speech rather than merely give lip-service to it. No doubt many visitors would remember it as they thought of the tourist bureau's slogan "A little bit of Britain on the West Coast."

The suggestion of having a Speaker's Corner in Victoria received much press and radio publicity. If one was started even as a Centennial project it would be an asset to the park at little or no cost to the city, and would be quite as much an attraction to many as the $25,000

Upholders of free speech will be hoping the police commission will reconsider its decision even if only to the extent of OK ing the Speaker's Corner for a year as an experiment. No harm trying it, is there?

After all, the parks do belong to the people, who should have a recognized place where any citizen could air his grievance o give voice to express any opinion on matters local, national or international.

That is democracy in practice, for which "there is no time like the present."

Even in the Capital

LONG, long ago, when the United States still stood at the head of the world, this reporter received an interest-ing suggestion from a British field marshal's wife who was well-known for her be blackly pessimistic to question the good intentions of the Josef Stalin, Really, it made very gloom y reading, said the lady. She was asked to suggest a more cheerful subject for public comment. As she had taken up life among the leafy branches be cause she was a British-style bird-watcher, she had her answer ready.

"Oh," she said brightly, "why not try birds?"

After twelve years, the time has come to take this often remembered advice. One very good reason is simple, unbounded admiration for the pair of mourning doves that have triumphantly reared twin dovelets (or should it be squabs?) in an ivy-hidden nest high above the garden terrace.

Sometony, sometay, ought to do a serious survey of wild life in American cities. (It could be called "The Ecology of Urban Areas," and would then be worth a doctorate.)

Here in the tired heart of Washington, at any rate, you acquire a great many unpaying tenants if you have a fair-sized city garden with a little cover

Uninvited Guest

Some are not so shy, either. The oppossum that lives under the garden-house even has a marked linking for dinner parties, which once caused a lot of trouble. At coffee-time, a nervous fe-male guest chanced to look behind her. There in the clematis vine, plainly illuminated in the candlelight, hanging upside down in an easy, graceful, sociable way, was what appeared to be a gigantic white rat. The ensuing piercing abriek did not disturb the 'possum, either.'

But aside from the 'possum that teaches her young each autumn to wash their food in the fountain, and the squire rels that once invaded the living room to make a nut-cache in the sofa, and the detestable half-wild cats the birds are the chief tenants of this wild-life refuges among the urban asphalt.

Their appearance is charming, for they look like gamebirds, as they are, yet like gamebirds with a special, fragile elegance. Their name is charming too, for what could be nicer than "Zenaidura Macrouva"? Their soft calling, like a musical fall of water, is full of love and haunting sadness and memories of dear things lost. But all this charm, which might otherwise be cloying, is splendidly seasoned with sheer spunk.

The doves started nesting in early March. They stuck to it grimly, the male on the nest all day and the female all night through the bitter winds and icy rains and deep snows of this terrible spring. They must have lost at least two clutches of eggs, for their eggs take only about two weeks to hatch. But they succeeded in their task.

Then, day after day, there was the wonderful sight of the doves endlessly hurrying out to find food and hurrying back to disgorge their crops into the al-ways waiting beaks. And finally, at this moment, the two young are hopping about on the terrace bricks, learning to take grain themselves.

Maybe this writing about birds is really too self-indulgent. But circle the free world's great periphery, from Berlin to Scoul, and you will see every vital position either decaying fast or in dead-ly danger already. # Dag Steps Out

NEW YORK—Quiet, scholarly Dag Ham-arskjold made a dramatic gamble for peace and gambled with his own career—when the intervened in the deliberations of the curity Council to support the proposal for Arctic in

The secretary-general has been famous for "quiet diplomacy" and for a caution which has made his public pronouncements some thing of a good - natured joke among UN correspondents, It is said that if you ask Mr.

Hammarskjold the time, he is likely to reply that it depends on what time zone you are in and go on to a dissertation on relativity and conclude with a quotation from a medieval Swedish

Now he has thrown caution aside to enter into a Great Power conflict.

There was no equivocation, no qualifica-ns. He said he was speaking for mankind which looks for leadership for delivery from the "nightmare," and he came down firmly in support of inspection.

UN officials said that his decision to intervene was completely unexpected, that it was made late in the debate. They said that Mr.' Hammarskjold has been considering making a statement on the arms deadlock which, he said in his statement, "has gone on far too long." He made a rather quick decision that an opportunity had come and he decided to gamble.

Inspection is an issue on which many people at the United Nations feel almost pasonately. They feel that it offers a way out, a beginning to the end of madness, and in the saw the issue hanging in the balance. The Russian ambassador had spoken strongly against the proposal. He called it a "diversionary manoeuvre" but he didn't say his government would veto it. All the other nations spoke strongly in support of the pro-posal and it seemed that Russia would have to make some gesture. At this point Mr. Hammarsjold threw the weight of his great prestige on the scales.

He did so with great skill. He said he wasn't taking sides (although he really was) and he noted that initiatives in the debate came from both sides-the Russians opened the debate when they objected to American bomber flights. He also noted that he recently bomb testing. And he said that the nations proposing and agreeing to a measure of this nature will win the praises of the world. In other words he made it as easy as possible for the Russians to agree or to come up with some similar proposal,

But why should it be so unusual for an intelligent man to make a statement of simple common sense? After all, he didn't say any-thing that millions of other people couldn't have said if they had been there.

The answer is that Mr. Hammamskjold's job is a difficult and delicate one and he must use extreme caution in his statements and actions. He's an international civil servant, the servant of the governments of the United Nations. The secretaries-general of the League of Nations kept very much behind the scenes. However, the first secreary general of the MN: Trygve Lie of Norwy, was frequently outspoken—and he finally resigned because of the hostility he roused in Moscow.

Certainly Mr. Lie's experience showed that the secretary general must exercise the greatest caution. He is a go-between and his use fulness ceases if he loses the confidence of the nations. Mr. Hammarskjold showed that he's well aware of his situation and in five years he has made few, if any controversial statements. He has proven time and again his intense desire to be fair. In his personal statements he has emphasized the need for patience, he has said that human affairs must judged in terms of centuries rather than years, and he has said he is confident that progress is being made,

Mr. Hammarskjold built up enormous prestige but there have been criticisms. people have said that he has a duty to offer leadership, and in the Arctic inspection debate he apparently decided the time had come to exercise it. It was almost as if he had been building up his credit to stake it at a vital

More leadership can be looked for in Those close to the secretary-general say he has been reorganizing the United Nations' secretariat to free himself from administrative detail, to permit more time for diplomatic activity. And it's noted that gradually, almost unwillingly, he's been taking a more active personal role—in the Middle East, for example, and in his recent trip to Moscow.

Hammarskjold prefers to think terms of the flow of centuries but he is well-aware that, unless decisive action is taken future centuries could flow across an earth which is a bare reddish rock orbiting

There is no talk in federal arters of any major tax cuts. But even so, current forecasts place the 1958-59 deficit at between $600,000,000 and $750,000,-000. Some authorities believe it may go even higher.

RISING DERF

ENGLAND

The deficit, which will mean rising national debt and stepped-up federal borrowing from the money market, would result from virtually stationary revenues and record expenditures of perhaps as much as $6,000,

First indication of the size of federal spending will come soon after the 24th Parliament is opened Monday. The book estimated expenditures for the fiscal year that began April 1 likely will be presented within two or three days after MPs assemble.

The reason is that the gov ernment's current supply of funds to carry on business obtained through Governor-General warrants—runs out May 15. To get new supply — this time voted by Parliament — the government must first present its estimates of expenditures on which to base its request for

ADDED LATER

Supplementary estimates will be added later covering various decisions of Parliament reached during the course of deliberations. One of these supplementaries may deal with federal payments to provinces under the national hospital insurance Bookkeeping on the government's spending during the fiscal year ended March 31 has not yet been completed. But indica-tions are the outlays—including those for old-age pensions came to about $5,500,000,000.

Now the government is open-ing its purse to greater outlays on public works of various kinds sion and the total bill may push spending perhaps to $5,800,000,000 or $6,000,000.000.

However, revenues are not ex-pected to keep pace and the government will go deep into the

OUEEN MOTHER MAKES MOVIE MOGULS SMILE

LONDON (Reufers)-British movie moguls today flashed cinemascope smiles because Queen Mother Elizabeth has agreed to attend a "royal film performance" early next year.

Her daughter, the Queen, recently broke an 11-year pattern and turned down an in-vitation to attend the annual royal screen show.

The showing the Queen Mother agreed to attend is to be held next February and is likely to net about £20,000 for the industry's chief charity—the Cinematograph Trade Benevolent Fund.

The Queen said she decided not to attend this year's royal movie show because she was varying her engagements to cover the widest possible field.

Irish Request Rejected; Tackle New Westminster

Victoria Shamrocks will open their 1958 Intercity Lacrosse League season at Memorial Arena tonight with little of the enthusiasm usually associated with an opening game.

The reason, of course, is that the Mann Cup champions will have more regulars on the side-lines than they will have in uniform when they tackle New Westminster Salmonbellies, the club considered most likely to replace the Irish as league champions.

Shamrocks, hit hard by influenza, were permitted to post-pone last week's scheduled league opener and had hoped to have tonight's tussie and a return game at New Westmin-ster Thursday also postponed.

THE SCOREBOARD BY

Harry Grayson

NEW YORK (NEA) — Another prospective opponent for Floyd Patterson was knocked out of the picture when shopworn Nino Valdes outfumbled Mike DeJohn in Syracuse.

The International Boxing Club is doing a splendid job of seeing that there is no one around with whom Patterson can get a payday. Come to think of it, maybe that is the IBC's main

After his spectacular 77-second knockout of Alex Miteff, DeJohn, who has the recommendation of packing a punch, easily could have been built into a satisfactory challenger, but John DeJohn let his big brother sit around for six months and then be spoiled by Valdes . . . before all of 2,970 people and a $8,995.50 gate.

Even had DeJohn stood up against Valdes, the chances are that Cus D'Amato, manager of Patterson, would have disqualified him as a contender because of association. DeJohn is a stablemate of Carmen Basilio, you see, and the onion picker has been one of Jim Norris' prize meal tickets.

D'Amato insists that Patterson will fight three times this year, but summer is almost here and ringworms wonder what he intends to use as men in the other corner.

A cock-and-bull story had Patterson fighting Roy Harris at Roosevelt Raceway on Long Island, but the Cut and Shoot clouter would have to appear out of Texas to convince anybody that he belonged in the same battle pit with the moth ball champion. D'Amato says he won't take Patterson to Houston, which is the only place where such a match would draw anything

Meanwhile, John DeJohn confides that a third Sugar Ray Robinson-Basilio middleweight championship battle is a lock for Yankee Stadium in September. This established war in the best outdoor boxing month of the year would take considerable away from anything D'Amato could cook up for Patterson, whose idleness has reached the point of ridicule.

D'Amato's closest friends can't get his thinking in the one-man crusade against Octopus, Inc. As a matter of fact, D'Amato is guilty of the same tactics which he gave as his reason for breaking with the monopoly. Patterson opponents, if any, play ball with his hand-picked promoters or are black Patterson could have collected $200,000 each for knocking off comparative soft touches in the two top-ranked contenders Eddie Machen and Zora Folley.

Instead, D'Amato kept saying that Pete Rademacher could beat both and it looked that way when they were exposed to the millions in living room AC's and saloons. With the opposition so mediocre, it would seem that D'Amato would carefully nurse almost anybody with whom Patterson could get action.

There was a profitable shot in the Pacific Northwest for Patterson with Pat McMurtry, but the Irishman's father, Clar-ence, wouldn't have any truck with Jack Hurley, D'Amato's man in the lush green country. Then slovenly Willi Besmanoff removed McMurtry from serious consideration.

Ingemar Johansson is a possibility, but he, too, probably would be ruled out by D'Amato because of his affiliation with Jack Solomons. The London promoter does business with the IBC, you see.

But it seems that D'Amato will never run out of amateurs with wealthy backers. Now it's Dan Hodge, the former wrestler who won the Golden Gloves title Meanwhile, Patterson, who apparently has all the requirements of a splendid champion, remains a nonentity.

Many believed that Al Weill did an excellent job of hiding Rocky Marciano, but in comparison with Floyd Patterson the Brockton Block Buster worked out daily in Macy's window after doing roadwork on Broadway.

The KELLOCK ROYAL COMMISSION shows the average number of firemen employed by Canadian Pacific was 2,927.

On May 11 when the findings of the Report for protection of employment and seniority of firemen take effect:

- 1. 2,350 men will continue to work as firemen just as at present.
- 2. 477 men will be transferred to train or yard service and, each month a fireman would have worked had no change been made, he will be guaranteed about $350.
  - 100 men will be laid off and given preference for other jobs with Canadian Pacific.

FRENCH AUTO TO INVADE B.C. MARKET

VANCOUVER (CP) -A French auto firm is planning to enter the B.C. car market. Francis Lacoste, France's ambassador to Canada, said here Tuesday that the Renault Automakers are planning to sell 500 of their Dauphine models in B.C. within the next year.

This would, be part of France's concerted drive to correct her imbalance of trade with Canada, he said.

"The picture until now has been awful," the ambassador said. France has been importing $55,000,000 worth of Canadian goods and exporting only $35,000,000.

The ambassador arrived here Tuesday to visit the B.C. International Trade Fair.

IN SCOTTISH COUNCIL VOTE

GLASGOW (Routers)—The municipal election returns through Scotland today repeated the moderate swing to the left shown in local elec-tions in England and Wales last month.

The Labor party increased its grip in certain Scottish areas and captured control of several town councils in bal-loting Tuesday. Socialists claim a total of 12 net gains

In Glasgow, Socialists made one net gain, increasing their majority in the city govern-

Edinburgh, reducing the Con-servative majority to 11. Anti-Socialists, however, succeeded in whitting down the Socialist majorities in Dundee, where it now is 12.

Bomb Threat Against Queen In Scotland

KIRCALDY, Scotland (UP) Police said Tuesday night they were taking seriously a bomb threat to "wipe out" Queen Elizabeth's "insult" to Scotland when she visits here next month.

The threat came in a note delivered along with a home made gelignite bomb to 37year-old journalist Alan McKay earlier yesterday.

The bomb, made up of 12 bunces of gelignite in a nine-Inch-square box, was in "safe" condition when it arrived by parcel post, police said.

With it was a note warning, that the "one we are contem-plating using somewhere in Fifeshire on June 30, whilst perhaps not being of the same design, will definitely not be safe and will wipe out the insult of June, 1953."

The note, signed "E.O.R." also asked McKay to notify the Scottish public that "English in-sults will no longer be tole-

HAZARDOUS FIRST DAY

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—For Canadian children the first day of life is twice as hazardous as the last four weeks before normal-term birth.

This is brought out in figures published by the World Health Organization. The figures are the first the agency has compiled on deaths in the so-called perinatal period, from the 28th week of pregnancy through the first week of life.

Of all Canadian deaths in this period from 1952 through 1954, 28.8 per cent occurred on the day of birth, against 14.8 per cent in the 36th through the 39th weeks of pregnancy; 7.7 per cent occurred on the second day of life, 14.8 per cent in the 40th week of pregnancy and afterward among potential 10thmonth babies and lesser percentages at other times.

Teen-Ager Aims at Future Beauty

For it takes time to blossom out with a trim figure, clear skin and shining hair.

And this enviable trio won't come from too many sundaes, no exercise and much sitting under a hot dryer. They will come from walking, swimming and playing tennis; from a daily workout with a stiff hairbrush and from the right foods and lots of rest.

The business about burning the candle af both ends may sound terribly dashing, but in actuality it's unwise and people who've done it would be the first to tell you so. It usually results in bad skin, dry hair, a lumpish figure and a generally sagging look.

In your teens you have the lock of the supermarket is a fine place to observe other women. For some reason, most women seem to feel that a supermarket is she has a full-time maid undoubtedly does not. But she has other things.

So anything goes. Pin curls, no make-up, head scarves, blue jeans, slacks worn with high heels. In a country where women have the best cosmetics and the most imaginative fashions to pick from, it's a pity to pass them by.

It's done, of course, because women feel that it doesn't matter how they look in front of family or in a supermarket. By the has a full-time maid undoubtedly does not. But she has other things.

She has lovely nylon lingerie.

She has a steam iron. She has miracle fabrics. She has springy wool and other fabrics that are wrinkle-resistant. She has no piloves and washable leather gloves. She has home permanents and excellent cosmetics and creams.

So she really doesn't need a maid to look her very best every day.

It's done, of course, because women feel that it doesn't matter how they look in front of family or in a supermarket. By

BRIDGE LESSON

- By Oswald Jacoby Here is an example of a super safety play from Marshall Miles' book. East wins the opening heart lead with the ace and returns the seven. South gathers in the trick with the jack and notes that he is in a mighty good con-tract. It is a cinch that West doesn't have more than one spade and a five-diamond contract would wind up in the ashcan. Hence, if South ♦ None ♥ 9853 ♥ Q 10 98 ♦ Q 10 753 ♥ Q 10 753 ♦ Q 10 753 is a smart duplicate player he will make sure of his nice four no-trump contract.

How does he go about it? Easy if he has seen all the cards and just as easy if he wants to play safe. He leads a diamond and ducks com pletely in dummy.

East South West North
1 A I N.T. Pass 3 N.T.
4 V Double Pass 4 N.T.
Pass Pass Pass When East shows out his caution is rewarded.

trick, with a singleton nine or ten, South will have lost a trick but he could well afford it. As mentioned already, South was in a fine contract Furthermore, the safety play is not at all far fetched.

You don't need? Sell is for each through classified ada.

East had bid up to four hearts all by himself vulnerable. He certainly would hold at least 11 cards in the major suits and could easily be void of diamonds.

them. Gag or not, it's not far from the truth and that's why W & S are all the more worthy of their initial success.

OF COURSE the result of all this is that Sullivan. who can smell a hit from here to outer Mongolia under water, immediately signed the the pair up for 25 more appearances, one of the biggest contract deals he has ever made with entertainers.

But where does all this halt? Not with Wayne and Shuster, surely? I'll wager a worn out picture tube against a fur-lined bathtub by Salvador Dali that American scouts are already tracking down more Canadian talent for the purpose of luring our artists south of the border with promises of cash and the castinets of fame.

And if this hypothesis proves correct then Canadian TV is in for a mighty hollow future, made up of those who have failed to make "the team," unless, of course our 21-inch-screen moguls can quickly raise a bountiful harvest of extra green and promise that our home as abroad.

Incidently, the Sullivan show was all-around good entertainment, but even Wayne and Shuster couldn't the repeated surprise "appearances" of competitor Steve Allen and his guests. It was blamed on a technical About a blackmailer and a gun feud. circuit after some equipment had failed. Or maybe this is the way out, the way eventually we can watch two or more spectaculars simultaneously when rival networks decide to compete with their big guns. Anyhow, it's an interesting thought.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN THURSDAY . . .

The interesting child born Thursday is of a composite nature. While looking at all things in the most optimistic fashlon, will yet think things over three times pefore taking one single step. It is your duty to teach alacrity, and then the chart is fine for the expediter, the basic education is a must, with the emphasis on the religious philosophies that so enrich the lives of all.

B.C. MARKET VANCOUVER (CP) -A French auto firm is planning to enter the B.C. car market. Francis Lacoste, France's ambassador to Canada, said here Tuesday that the Renault Automakers are planning to sell 500 of their Dauphine models in B.C. within the next year. This would be part of France's concerted drive to correct her imbalance of trade with Canada, he said. "The picture until now has been awful," the ambassador said. France has been importing $55,000,000 worth of Canadian goods and exporting only $35,000:000.

The ambassador arrived here Tuesday to visit the B.C. International Trade Fair.

What is the Halogen Family?

The halogen brothers are chemical elements. Their family name means the sait makers. We find the halogens grouped together in the periodic atomic table. Each element, of course, has its own number of electrons. Each halogen element, has a different number of electrons. But each has seven electrons. But each has seven electrons in its outer shell. The best-known halogen in our everyday lives is chlorine, tron is always eager to find a partner. This can be done by teaming up with another atom which also needs one more electron to make a pair.

When this happens, the teamed atoms form a compound, something entirely different from the two basic elements. The halogens with their outer shells of seven atoms are very active. What are the anteater's enemies?

Almost any animal who eats ants as a steady diet may be called an anteater. But the true, toothless anteaters are all natives of the New World. They are found in the warm regions of Central and South America.

The silky two-toed anteater is only 15 inches long. He is a fire extinguisher.

Bromine is another halogen, only 15 inches long. whose name refers to its hor-rible smell. It is present in the ethyl used to refine gasoline. Sodium bromide is a nerve medicine and silver bromide is rather deaf. He often falls prey to tree snakes and tree climbing cats. The three-toed anteater may be over two feet in length. He, too, is a tree dweller and often falls victim to the big cats. The giant anteater is as big as a small bear. And he stays on the ground. This one is a powerful fellow, well able to defend himself with his strong arms and claws. Not even the big cats dare attack-him. The giant anteater is gentle by nature but when wounded he has been known to kill a boy. His only serious enemy is man.
